25 TAURUS ENERGY READING

LOVE LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Dear Reader,

After the release of the first issue, Aries, I identified a few things that I know for sure. Work isn't hard if you love it, but you have to be willing to put in the prep work first, lay the foundation.

I recently listened to a Tony Robbins interview, and he said

HAPPINESS = PROGRESS.

Reflecting on the foundational work that went into Aries, all of the thoughts and feelings it stirred up, and realizing the tweaks to be made along the way, Taurus somehow felt more effortless. That was obviously the created effect, and the consistency became the proof of progress.

Taurus as springlike energy, earthy yet luxurious, evokes that knowing of worthiness. In determining the aesthetic for this month, the team had differing opinions of Taurus. I see the archetype as sensuous and regal, nurturing and stubborn. Others view it as a salt of the earth; let's play with worms type. With these differing views in mind, the one thing remained true. Taurus works hard, stays present, and enjoys what they do.

This season brings themes of worthiness, opportunity and, in my opinion, standards. I have Taurus in my 6th house, with my ruling planet of Jupiter (I am a Sagittarius Rising.) The 'plodding along' Taurean nature helps me hold a consistency with my efforts toward my wellness and feel more comfortable in my personal views on integrity.

Throughout this issue, we highlight beauty (Venus, Taurus's ruling planet) and Money (2nd house) and revel in Taurus's earthy mystique, as it takes away the superficiality of these themes in life and reminds us that we are worthy of them. Taurus works for what they love, and entrepreneurially, this couldn't be more apt. So I expand in this season in health and productivity.

With Love,
Emma

The Indoor Forest is a Biophilic Design company. Our mission is to help people connect with nature. We believe that the human relationship to nature is cyclical - as nature heals us, we are reminded to do our part to heal nature in return. When we transform spaces using moss, plants, and natural materials, we create a multi-sensory sanctuary that fosters well-being in both people and the planet.

MY WORK IS: SUSTAINABLE + ECO-FRIENDLY, CREATIVE + CUSTOMIZED, COLLABORATIVE.

ENTREPRENEUR BIO:

Stevie Klick doesn't just have a green thumb; she has a green soul. Her business, The Indoor Forest Canada, highlights the importance of Biophilic Design, bringing it to interiors, not just for being on-trend or its unique beauty, but for its genuine unabashed health benefits. Greenwalls are becoming more common in the home and in public spaces to improve our indoor air quality, our mood, and several other proven reasons why bringing nature indoors is impactful. Stevie has worked tirelessly to bring her vision to an entrepreneurial life and is a trailblazer. Her dedication to her craft and mission has and will continue to bring her success. She's one to watch and take cues from when it comes to growth.

WHAT IS MY SOUL GOAL?

My purpose is very much to heal and grow. I want to challenge the way things are because I think they can be better. I firmly believe that I cannot embark on my mission alone, so I aim to inspire and lead you to discover what is possible. The curious little scientist exists in all of us, as we are innately curious about the natural world.

This is for those rushed by their mothers when they dawdled along, picking at plants growing in the sidewalk cracks or were punished for getting dirty (especially the women) and were always barefoot. I call to those who were not allowed the freedom to explore and those who were not privileged enough; for the city dwellers and those who couldn't be bothered to venture off the path - I hope I can inspire them to want to connect with nature. We will find them if we start looking toward the plants for answers. I am here to bridge the gap.

WHAT IS YOUR MAIN PRODUCT/SERVICE?

I now, along with my growing team, create preserved moss art (frames, terrariums, walls, sculptures, installations.) This includes living walls in offices and public spaces, live picture frames seen more often in homes, and doing custom work for my clients based on their desired needs. Our installations are high-quality and faux, so they remain low maintenance.

WHAT IS BIOPHILIC DESIGN?

The word biophilia was first introduced by a psychoanalyst named Erich Fromm, who stated that biophilia is the "passionate love of life and of all that is alive...whether in a person, a plant, an idea, or a social group."

Biophilic design is a concept used within the building industry to increase occupant connectivity to the natural environment through direct and indirect nature, space and place conditions. It is designing a space for the occupant as a biological organism using the mind-body system's responsiveness to neuroaesthetics. Biophilic design takes into consideration a few key elements. It considers health conditions, socio-cultural norms, expectations, experiences, frequency and duration of the user experience, user perception and processing of the experience. The user's intent is essential to consider, is the space meant to be calming and healing, or is the space meant to inspire creativity?

BIOPHILIC DESIGN HELPS DESIGNERS
CREATE INSPIRATIONAL, RESTORATIVE, HEALTHY, AND INTEGRATIVE SPACES WITH FUNCTIONALITY TO THE PLACE AND ECOSYSTEM TO WHICH IT IS APPLIED.
AND MOST IMPORTANTLY, IT INCLUDES A LOVE FOR THE NATURAL WORLD.
ANOTHER ELEMENT TO CONSIDER IS WHAT IS LOCALLY APPROPRIATE AND RESPONSIVE TO THE SURROUNDING ENVIRONMENT.

WHAT SPARKED YOUR DECISION TO START THE INDOOR FOREST?

I started my business at the end of 2020, during the pandemic and what inspired me was the lack of creativity in the plant world. I collected and propagated plants in my home for years, but it started to get out of hand.

To accommodate my growing jungle, I began looking for solutions that led me to grow plants on the walls and ceiling! I just jumped right into it and learned a ton about plants, how they grow and how they don't... I also started growing moss, which is fickle to grow indoors. When I discovered preserved moss, my creative artistic brain exploded with ideas, and I knew I had found a home for my creativity. There are truly endless options for creativity with plants, so I am continuously inspired.

WHERE ARE YOU CURRENTLY DRAWING INSPIRATION FROM?

I draw a lot of my inspiration from nature itself. What I find even more beautiful is learning how and why plants behave and grow in specific ways. And if you spend enough time in nature as an observer, you will notice new details or certain behaviours from the plants and trees. I find that part fascinating, and I try to bring some of those elements into my work. I also find myself inspired by all the creative ideas that my clients bring forth. I get approached with unusual ideas, and it's both a challenge and a pleasure to co-create and bring someone's vision to life.

WHAT ARE THE KEY TACTICS RELATING TO NEUROAESTHETICS THAT BIOPHILIC DESIGN OFFERS?

Biophilic Design aspires to evoke an intense feeling. Beauty, like art, is a neurological activity, an urge for and sense of pleasure, and it is associated with awe and wonder. It helps to explain why waves crashing can captivate us or why plants can enhance our creativity. It is why an unexpected or foreboding shadow bites our curiosity and why looking out from a 10-foot cliff instills fascination and fear. It is why animals have been companions to humans for centuries and why a stroll through the forest can have therapeutic and healing effects.

Neuroaesthetics examines how the brain intersects with our environment, focusing on how art and nature affect our well-being and mental health and influence our emotions. For example, it delves into how one person may find symmetrical patterns in a space, such as furnishings, pleasing to the eye and calming to the mind. In contrast, another finds that asymmetry gives them better mental clarity, peace and fulfillment.

To better explain this, let's begin with the plant. Plants produce a series of chemicals called flavonoids and, depending on their genetics, will make a pigment that determines their color and vibrancy. This chemical process is essential for the species' survival as pollinators are needed for the plant to reproduce. Certain pollinators are attracted to specific floral palettes, just like us!

HOW DOES BIOPHILIC DESIGN CREATE AN ALL-INCLUSIVE SENSORY EXPERIENCE?

Biophilic design aims to recreate the sensory experience that the natural world provides, and it does this using a combination of textures, colors, materials, or elements of nature. Everything about nature calms us, grounds us and connects us. When we experience nature, whether we are aware of it or not, we tick almost all of our senses. We hear the ambiance and depth, the echoes of the birds above contrasting the density of the ground. You can touch the foliage and dip your feet into the water for tactile sensations. The sense of smell is called olfaction, which signals the nerves in your body toward the brain's cerebral cortex.

Preserved moss, folia, and flora are great additions because they don't need water, sunlight, or maintenance, but you still get the benefits of a live plant. They filter the air, produce oxygen, absorb sound, temper humidity and provide insulation.

HOW CAN DESIGN AND BUILD PROFESSIONALS INCORPORATE MORE BIOPHILIA INTO THEIR WORK?

I see an increased demand for plant-inspired everything. Popularity has spiked because the list of benefits is endless, from the health and wellness of the occupants inside to building costs and value. Adding plants and moss to homes and buildings helps reduce heating and cooling costs as they are insulating, improve air filtration and quality and absorb sound. The concept of biophilic design is not new. It can be seen in ancient civilizations, such as the hanging gardens of Babylon or the papyrus pools of the Egyptians. People have always been drawn toward biophilic design, and we didn't have a word for it or the research needed to quantify its value.

HOW DOES BIOPHILIC DESIGN IMPROVE OUR HEALTH?

Biophilic design can reduce stress, improve cognitive function and creativity, improve our well-being, and expedite healing. The mental, psychological and physiological systems have been explored and studied to varying degrees in laboratory or field studies to help explain how their environment impacts people's health and well-being. In addition, there are studies in each of these overarching systems which demonstrate the complex reaction our bodies and minds have.

WHAT IS YOUR PRODUCTION PROCESS LIKE WHEN WORKING ON CLIENT PROJECTS?

Frequently the client has seen something they are inspired by or even a particular topography that they feel drawn to. I then create a sketch based on their vision and detail color tones, plant and material options. After we finalize the design, size and cost, we are ready to bring their vision to life. This step includes sourcing, ordering materials, giving the customer a timeline, and making custom parts. I work with carpenters, sign companies, metal, concrete or whatever is needed to bring a vision to life. I offer shipping, delivery and setup, and local pickup options depending on the size and scale of the project.

When I build a living wall, the process is more complicated because each wall is unique. I offer systems that entail hand watering, automatic irrigation, and gravity drip systems where the water is fed into the top tray and drips down through the approach to the bottom. I also need to collect information about the wall materials inside and out and the lighting. The final steps of a green wall installation involve structuring a frame (or box) around the sides and hiding the water catch and drainage at the bottom.

WHAT ATMOSPHERES WOULD YOU LIKE TO WORK WITHIN? (WHAT SORT OF CLIENTS DO YOU WANT TO WORK WITH—OFFICES, SCHOOLS, HOSPITALS?)

I enjoy working with residential clients because I love helping them rediscover what is possible for their homes. I love designing or redesigning a transformational space.

I also love working with my commercial clients because they are often interested in incorporating specific biophilic design elements to improve their employees' well-being and make their workspace feel different. Working with commercial clients is fun because they often have crazy ideas for their spaces, and I love unique projects.

Due to recent studies over the last decade, green space in hospitals is also becoming increasingly popular in their design. I want to design appropriate greenery for areas like these and schools.

HOW DO YOU ENVISION YOUR OWN BUSINESS SCALING IN THE COMING YEARS AND WHERE DO YOU WANT TO MAKE MORE OF AN IMPACT?

My overarching goal for how I want to make an impact is in our local urban environment and community concerning environmental issues, urbanization and loss of green space. It's an important issue creeping up on us quickly, and I want to explore what is possible and be a part of the solution.

I have been building my team over the past year, and I aspire to have a space to house our projects and other artists working with me. Perhaps we will have a public-facing space as well. However, I definitely aspire to create a magical plant world where creative ideas flow and possibilities are endless.

FOLLOW-UP, WHAT IS YOUR DREAM PROJECT? WE'LL MANIFEST IT RIGHT NOW.

I would love to create a sensory experience exhibit where guests walk through a room blindfolded and are encouraged to use all their senses except sight. When we eliminate one of our five senses, a natural response is for the others to be heightened. I want to recreate the feeling and walk into a mossy forest's depth. Plants and moss naturally absorb sound and change the acoustics of a room. Guests first walk through blindfolded and are encouraged to examine the room first before removing their blindfolds to view the exhibition. This idea was something I had in mind to raise money and awareness for visually impaired people. It will also allow people to experience the magic of biophilic design in the dead of winter.

VALUING THE OPPORTUNITIES YOU PROVIDE

BY
NORTON

Traditionally, an opportunity is viewed as something you are offered and need to take advantage of. It seems as though we often consider an opportunity as something that is bestowed upon us like some magical relic from a far-off land. We either seize it, claim it as our own or, truthfully, more often than not, the self-sabotage kicks in due to a lack of feeling worthy of it. So we procrastinate, blame, avoid, run away, stay small or whatever our defence mechanism of choice is.

Taurus is about knowing your worth. Heading into this Taurus energy is all about consistent efforts toward goals and appreciating whatever you deem luxurious. So, why do entrepreneurs, unless labelled as delusional narcissists, do we not fully embody our worthiness and know that we are giving opportunities as much as we are essentially chasing after them and not being in proper receiving mode? Let's break that longwinded message down further.

RECENTLY, I LISTENED TO TONY ROBBINS IN AN INTERVIEW, AND HE STATED THAT:
PROGRESSION = HAPPINESS.

This simple understanding is that you will reach your desired outcome if you constantly and strategically work toward your ambitions. This focus on effort and taking the baby steps in the right direction is that statement in action, and we can express our gratitude for our little wins because we are noting our progression. If we are constantly working toward something, it is wise to celebrate the small victories and treat them like progress trackers because psychologically, we are rewarding ourselves and building up our concept of self-worth. This, as a result, is our happiness practice.

VALUING THE OPPORTUNITIES YOU PROVIDE

BY
NORTON

Being an entrepreneur, and being human really, is about expansion. As someone who has Jupiter (the planet of luck and expansion) in the hardworking and stable Taurus, I am drawn to the persistence toward an opportunity, yes, and I also embody the endurance to make it happen. I am strong like bull. I have years of personal and professional experiences that led me here, and I can bank on my wisdom, charisma and the opportunities I create and offer to others. However, only recently did I take in the value I provide clients, readers, collaborators, my cats, etc. and take the idea of an opportunity to flip it into the empowerment of my self-concept. This seemingly small mental shift has helped me immensely in terms of confidence in content creation, price quotes, a broader client reach and being in alignment with my purpose of assisting others in communicating authentically.

IN TERMS OF PROFESSIONALISM, EXCEPTIONALLY AS ENTREPRENEURS,

we can be staunch in our responses to an opportunity and try to be very astute. Meanwhile, we are squealing inside from the excitement when it's real for us. I believe it is wholeheartedly okay to express your joy over something as much as you might express empathy. Being genuine about how opportunities make us feel showcases gratitude, and that fearlessness of self-expression is all about that worthiness and that luxuriously earthy Taurus energy.

A major entrepreneurial lesson is what we provide as an opportunity. After (most often) years of practice riddled with rejections, failures, and facing all of the fears, our self-worth (ideally) flourishes. We redefine success by the equal reciprocation of opportunities flowing in and out. It is not something that happens overnight, and often those success stories we see are a fluke, and the stories of growth and grit are far sexier. The appeal of a good human progression is unrivalled, in my opinion, because that knowledge of self and purpose is what the real win is for an entrepreneur and those who we serve with the opportunities we provide.

THE 2ND HOUSE REPORT

A NEW ECONOMY FOR TAURUS

BY RHIANNON
ROSALIND

Leveraging the way in which you relate to the economy and how to make more money through your creative and holistic passions.

The natural zodiac sign of the second house is Taurus, so if you have this placement in your natal chart, you're in for a treat. The hardworking bull represents Taurus. You'll naturally work hard to create stability and balance in your finances and use your persistence to build a solid material foundation for yourself and your loved ones. As an earth sign, Taurus relishes in the simple pleasures of the material realm, enjoying the simple luxuries of life- good food, good drinks, and good company. Taureans are responsible and prefer to follow the rules, so it's natural for this 2nd house placement to take a mature and tempered approach to investing and finance. They are happy to see longer-term financial goals through to the end, opting for stability over risk. These characteristics typically make Taurus second house natives great savers, as they have abundant patience. Taurus strives for peace and calm and often values money and material wealth for its ability to create harmony and balance. Yet, this placement must watch out for being overly cautious with money and frugal. You can be responsible and enjoy your money simultaneously, and it is through your enjoyment of the little luxuries you find yourself in true alignment.

CREATIVE + HOLISTIC CAREER CHOICES & ADVICE - MIDHEAVEN REPORT

Taurus rulership in the second house most often has a Capricorn Midheaven placement in the 10th house of career, reputation, public image, goals and ambition. With the double earth element here, you're driven to reach your goals in work and finance and have a major motivation to succeed in the material realm. You are known to be hardworking, diligent, practical, and highly disciplined. This is a powerful placement; you are here to make a name for yourself in business and build wealth. The caution for this placement is not to lose oneself in work. It is very easy for a Capricorn Midheaven native to fall into workaholic tendencies, so ambitious and determined that you lose sight of the other essential areas of your life. It is also crucial for you to balance your competitive edge and assertiveness in business with the loving, calm nature of your Taurus 2nd house. Below are a few fantastic new economy career choices that would suit the owner of this powerful combination:

- New Economy Investment Manger
- Quantum Physicist
- CEO of a Conscious Economy Enterprise
- Physician/ Healthcare Professional

ECONOMIC FORECAST FOR TAURUS IN 2ND AND CAPRICORN MIDHEAVEN IN THE 10TH

Channeled message for the new economy

During this great transition on the planet, old systems are collapsing, and new systems will need to be built. You are a critically important leader in the new economy, as you have the discipline and vision to create new foundational infrastructure and help humanity reach new goals. Your drive and unwavering ambition serve us all now. As many people lose faith and focus at this time, your strength acts as an energetic propeller, pulling us forward even when it feels like we are slipping back. Your high moral integrity supports the goal of building a more conscious economy. Your traditional approach will help ground some of the higher wave innovations arising at this time. We need your practical leadership in the Aquarian Age, as you bring cohesion and structure to the esoteric and mystical approach, creating natural balance and integration for new economy energies.

PRODUCTIVITY BY THE MIDHEAVEN

BY

CHARACTERISTICS

Those with a Taurus (Earth) Midheaven are often drawn to creativity and the finer things in life. Although sometimes perceived as a little lazy and struggling with motivation, but a Taurus midheaven never gives up on a goal until they have achieved success.

PRODUCTIVITY TIPS

If you are struggling with motivation:

- Break down your goals into smaller pieces. It's easier to stay on track this way.
- Create a reward system for yourself. Set your goal and a few milestones, for each milestone you reach give yourself a small reward (a cup of special tea, watch an episode of your fave show on Netflix, whatever you feel is an appropriate reward). You can give yourself a bigger reward once you've reached your goal
- Make sure your work environment excites you, if you enjoy pretty things, make sure this is reflected in the aesthetic of your work environment.

The earth element in productivity is all about basics and structures. It allows you to work effectively and, for example, not waste time by having to search where you have stored your documents. However, too much of this element repeatedly create new schedules and procedures but does not use them correctly. Once you have found a plan or process that works, being unable to deviate from them, when this element is balanced, you have structures in place for guidance but can shift when life throws you a curveball.

Here are 3 ways to increase (+) or decrease (-) your fire element.

- + nature walks
- + grounding meditation
- + cook a meal from scratch
- try a new exercise routine
- power walking in nature
- breathwork

The word "rune" means "to carve or to cut." The origins of runes used as a form of divination date from approximately 150 CE to 1100 CE in Northern Europe. After 1100 CE, they were replaced by the Latin writing system with the incoming colonization of Rome.

When we study the runes, we do not only come across linguistic patterns representing practical information such as accounts of dates and names; we also come across "non-linguistic" inscriptions which represent magical symbolism and incantations of protections, blessings or curses."

Source: <https://www.kornevall.com/post/unearthing-ancient-magic-in-the-runes-messages-with-hidden-symbols-and-powerful-numbers>

There is another layer of personal interpretation of the rune by the person who casts the rune. It is unveiled through extensive work with the runes over time. Therefore, the runic interpretations are mentioned here, after working with the runes on the four elements and specific zodiac signs.

These earth runes represent the Taurus characteristics of Hardworking, Stable, Stubborn, Goal oriented, Creative.

THESE ELEMENTS

YOURSELF

EARTH IS THE ELEMENT OF GROUNDEDNESS.

Earth has patience that can endure anything. It is stable and strong and aware of its abundance. It can wait for more. Someone with a lot of earth in their chart will have fierce confidence in themselves and others. They know they are dependable, which makes them steadfast friends and colleagues. The Earth is the caretaker of everything, after all.

And while they may be practical and grounded, that same force can prevent them from taking risks or leaps of faith. They will prefer to leave that for folks with a lot of fire in their charts. Super logical beings, people with more earth also tend to have trouble tapping into their emotions and responding to their heart's calling. The logic of the mind determines their actions.

Everyone needs one earth-influenced person in their corner - and yes, that includes people with a lot of their own earthy energy too! They crave security and comfort - often in the form of material possessions. While this will initially focus on themselves, if they come to see you as one of their people, earth-influenced folks will want to provide that for you.

BALANCING YOUR EARTH

When the earth element is unbalanced, you might feel unstable, ungrounded, worried, and full of doubt. The usual self-sufficiency and drive seen in people with earth dominance in their birth chart will seem weak or non-existent. It can also be exhibited through extreme stubbornness and unwillingness to try something new or change tactics even when that could be the most helpful thing they could do.

In either case, balancing earth energy often means finding stability again. You can:

- Revisit your goals and remind yourself why you're going after them. Consider making a vision board while you're at it!
- Pick one small, achievable thing and just do that. Do your best to do it well but forget about perfection.
- Find someone with a lot of fire and enjoy their contagious passion for reawakening you to yours.
- Go outside and reconnect with nature. Stand barefoot in the grass, run as fast as you can until you're all out of breath, or lay on the lawn and feel everything moving around you. Whatever you have to do to connect with this driving element, do it.

BEING A GOOD LEADER SOMETIMES MEANS BEING A GOOD FOLLOWER

It's not uncommon for the Earth signs, and Taurus in particular, to wind up in leadership positions. Who wouldn't want them there? They're hardworking, dependable, independent, self-sufficient, and full of love for those around them. But sometimes, those very qualities can cause them to overwork themselves (and others), forgetting that not everyone is the workhorse, leading to burnout. They can also get stuck in the rigid way they do things and be unwilling to listen to suggestions from their teams. The symbol of Taurus is a bull, after all.

Being a good leader may mean learning how to be a good follower. One of the best ways a Taurus can lead is by offering others leadership positions while supporting them as they grow into their role. That could look like quietly taking directions from them, doing things their way, and allowing their inherent stable nature to be a safety net for them.

THE ELEMENTS

GROUND

EARTH IN TAURUS

The earth is so strong in Taurus-influenced people that they can very literally dig out the life they want with some grit and determination. The trick with these earthy influenced people is to know when to stop digging in one direction and when to start plowing in toward the new.

The same earth element that drives them towards success sets them up to be exceptional leaders, makes them dependable, and makes them stubborn. Like a tree, rooted fiercely in the soil that holds them, they can be fiercely resistant to change while simultaneously reaching with open hands for comfort and luxury. That search for comfort can be harmless self-care and self-soothing, but it will always be necessary for the Taurus to watch out for where it turns to greed.

WORKING WITH A TAURUS

Leadership positions and a positive reputation seem to come easy to Taurus-influenced people. Generally, you'll probably like working with them. Their grounded strength and patience will make you feel supported and provide just the right amount of external structure you need to do your job well. You'll feel like they want you to succeed and grow and even take on leadership positions of your own because they inspire you. But there might also be moments when you worry they've given you too much independence. When their earth is in balance, having a Taurus team leader is a dream come true.

As fiercely independent people, they might leave you in peace to do what you're doing, trusting you'll be self-sufficient like them. Unless they truly believe the success of the project is in jeopardy, you'll have to go to them for support. They won't come to you. The same is true for what they're thinking in general. While they won't necessarily volunteer their thought process for getting something done, it's okay to ask for it. And with the patience of the Earth, they'll walk you through it.

But don't ask them how they got into leadership positions unless you're prepared for the most Taurus, self-help answer. They'll likely shrug and tell you it's all a matter of hard work. With the Earth's influence so thoroughly in their favor, hard work often pays off tenfold.

Inside and outside of leadership positions, their vital self-sufficiency can make it difficult for them to ask for and accept help. Still, offer your support because even the most independent people need someone they can rely on and fall back on. Being there for them, in general, will help build trust and loyalty in your relationship.

To see where Taurus and other earth energy shows up for you, it's best to look up your birth chart and find out where you are most affected.

WEBSITE: WWW.MAGICOFFERING.CA

My business curates unique and thoughtful gift boxes composed of products from small businesses, brought together under a theme.

My goal is to help consumers discover new items to incorporate into their daily lives all while getting to support small businesses and getting more eyes on their products.

MY WORK IS: THOUGHTFUL, MINDFUL, CREATIVE, BEAUTIFUL

ENTREPRENEUR BIO:

Katelyn Gileno is a grower, not a shower. Like a seedling sprouting in spring, we mean.

She has gone through most of her childhood and teenage years believing that ambition was something to be avoided, that keeping herself small was the safest way. Over the years, as she has slowly pulled back the layers she has been hiding under, she has discovered her inner strength. Even though this is a process she continues to work on daily (goal-setting is one of her hobbies), she practices daily dives deeper into self-reflection, building her skills, allowing herself to flow and exploring her creativity.

WHAT IS MY SOUL GOAL?

I feel that my soul goal is to create beautiful, unique and thought provoking experiences for people. I also think one of my other soul goals is to support and cheer on people as they grow and heal. I have so many dreams that I want to achieve such as to travel and experience life. I feel that deep down I am here to grow and to then share what I discover with others, whether it be an amazing sustainable product I have found, a thought provoking book I have read, or a lesson I have learnt recently in my life.

WHAT IS YOUR MAIN PRODUCT/SERVICE?

My service is curating a visually appealing and thoughtful experience to be given as a gift to someone or to yourself. I curate this gift so you don't have to! I find beautiful, unique and quality products from small businesses, often from Instagram, and put it together for you! Though the product I sell is a gift box, the service I provide is curating these products together under a theme to create an entire experience for the receiver.

WHAT SPARKED YOUR DECISION TO START YOUR JOURNEY WITH THE MAGIC OFFERING?

It was brought to my attention that I could combine my love of design & color, with my passion for supporting small businesses. In this unique way of curation, it just made sense for me. I have always wanted to run my own business. This business has helped me grow so much as a person and challenged me in so many different ways. I love meeting creative people and cheering them on in living their dreams!

WHERE ARE YOU CURRENTLY DRAWING INSPIRATION FROM?

I draw inspiration always from color, emotion, nature and sustainability. Daily practices such as self-care inspire me as well, finding practical ways to source products that people will actually use!

Astrology and witch practices are influencing me more and more as I continue on this path. Our earth is a huge motivator for me also, I love sharing products that are sustainable and eco friendly. So many people out there have never heard of a shampoo bar or beeswax wrap, so I love bringing these products to light to show that there are different and easy alternatives to lessen waste. Seeing garbage in nature pains me so much. Our world is so wasteful, though I know that in some ways it feels impossible not to produce waste, but discovering these creative and ingenious alternatives gives me hope that more innovative businesses will emerge and create products that could change our world, one step at a time.

But mostly, the largest inspiration for me, especially when creating the theme of the box is emotion. Each theme is meant to be powerful and bring strong emotions - such as 2021's themes - fresh start, shine, bewitching and persevere. I am so excited to tap into the themes of 2022 and share these strong experiences with you. Connecting to that emotion is something that comes easily to me, a sensitive Pisces Moon. Once I immerse myself and place myself into those feelings, I connect the dots with the products and how I feel they could stir those emotions. It is quite a personal process and experience, one I am very proud to share with you all.

HOW DO YOU ENVISION YOUR BUSINESS GROWING IN THE COMING YEARS? WHERE DO YOU FEEL THE NEED TO EXPAND?

If I were to peer into a crystal ball, I would see Magic Offering expanding into different categories of boxes - one of which that I am very excited for is an astrology box! I have an extensive and overflowing lineup of curated gift box ideas that I hope to bring to fruition in the coming years.

Another facet of Magic Offering that I am hoping to begin is curating gift boxes for companies and retreats. I believe I can bring such a personal approach to my gift boxes to show the appreciation and consideration that a company hopes to show their customers and clients. In this day and age, there are so many competing companies, the ones that stand apart are the ones that show they truly do care. I believe Magic Offering could bring to light a whole new level of dedication to acknowledge how much they value their customers and clients.

I have also toyed with completely custom boxes. For example, you as a customer want to give your daughter the best gift box ever for Christmas. After a free consultation, getting to know her likes, and values, as well as your budget, it would be an honor to create a one-of-a-kind gift box for a special someone. This could range from birthday, Christmas, housewarming and more-for any and all reasons to give a gift. I would love to tune into my very personalized process for curating and create a gift that will be surely unforgettable. Expanding this business is so very exciting and one I hope to do very soon!

Astrology, witch, custom, professional -maybe even a Cannabis box! I have so many gift box ideas just waiting to be experienced and explored with your senses, for any and all occasions.

HOW DO YOU BRING MULTI-SENSORY EXPERIENCES INTO YOUR BOXES?

When creating a box for Magic Offering, I am definitely considering the senses. I typically start with the obvious, vision. When curating my box, it is definitely key that I am creating a visually appealing and beautifully coordinated grouping of products, specifically focusing on the color scheme for the box. Afterwards, the next sensation is feel and texture, which is very important. I like to include items that range in texture, such as soft macrame plant holders, glass bottled face cleansers, and even leaf leather pouches. Having a range of soft goods vs hard goods creates a well-rounded box. Smell is the next sensation I consider. Products such as chocolate-scented face masks for fall, citrus shampoo bars for summer and balsam fir healing balm for winter. How something smells can bring you right into the season or even a memory! Combining all of these sensations - vision, feel and smell can create a multi-sensory experience that you will explore in a Magic Offering box.. As of right now, sound and taste aren't entirely possible, maybe someday! The theme and overall feel of a Magic Offering box is woven together with these products, to really bring these sensations and the emotions that follow, to life.

WHAT IS YOUR PROCESS LIKE WHEN WORKING WITH CUSTOMERS AND HOW DO YOU BEST OPERATE?

One of my favorite parts of this business is getting to know people! Not only do I love getting to know the vendors and brands whose products grace the gift boxes, but I get to know my incredible customers. Knowing that people enjoy my creations is what refuels my passion, again and again. I speak and “meet” customers online, primarily on Instagram. It is an incredibly accessible way to reach out to brands and customers alike. I have had the honor of finding some new friends from starting this business, which makes me so happy. Last summer, I had the chance to attend my first market with Magic Offering; I was so nervous! But once I started to talk to people. I felt a spark ignite every time I got to connect with someone and share what I had created. I best operate when I can show my excitement and share my energy with others. Whether customers, clients, vendors or strangers, I believe communication is a beautiful thing to build together.

AS SOMEONE WHO BELIEVES IN THE POWER OF INTENTION, IF YOU WERE TO CURATE CUSTOM BOXES FOR A COMPANY LET’S SAY, AND YOU HAD TO CREATE SOMETHING MORE GENERALIZED, HOW WOULD YOU GO ABOUT THAT?

I believe that even if I were to create something more generalized for a company (which I genuinely do hope to expand to in the future), I would still create something thoughtful. I would start with the message and purpose for the gift, possibly a thank you box for a client in a real estate company with a frame including an image of the sold sign, beeswax wraps for the kitchen, and a DIY kit to create a mold of your first house key for a keepsake. Or a gift box for the participants of a retreat for profound self-healing. I would include crystals, a journal with prompts, and incense. I can focus on the desired feeling for each gift the more I know the intention. I believe that showing appreciation for your customers, clients and or participants of your service is critical. As time goes on, customers put more thought and consideration into the companies they support. I believe that companies that put energy into showing how they value their customers will succeed moving forward. The intention is the very thing that drives every box. Once I understand why, I can consider budgets, range of products and presentations for my current gift boxes and the professional custom boxes I hope to create in the future.

WHEN CURATING YOUR BOXES, WHAT DO YOU LOOK FOR, AND WHAT ARE SOME COMMON CHALLENGES YOU FIND THAT SMALL BUSINESS OWNERS FACE? PARTICULARLY THOSE WHO ARE PRODUCT DRIVEN IN CREATIVE AND HOLISTIC CAPACITIES?

When I am curating a box, I look for unique and quality products made by real people. At this time, I exclusively put Canadian small businesses in my boxes to help with shipping timelines, duty and exchange, but I look forward to expanding worldwide in the future. I often peruse Instagram and save any items that I think are cool. I keep them by product category and also by box themes. By doing so, I maintain my own directory to go back and rediscover businesses and products that I thought looked interesting in the past! I strive for diversity in my boxes, ensuring an extensive range of products for consumers to explore. I seek to feature at least one product per box that encourages eco-practices, and I am also looking for companies that care about sustainability in their practices. I find a common challenge for small businesses is keeping up with ever-changing algorithms and finding a balance between working their day job and building their business. It isn't easy! So many of these businesses work so hard, making Reels and trying different things to get their business out there, and it's inspiring.

if aries is from mars, then taurus is from venus.
she can't help but be weighty in her head, neck and shoulders, for taurus is a bull.

in a house full of teacups.
a bull, with glowing emerald eyes and a horn that glitters in the sun, made of soft,
pink clay. when taurus arrives, she will bring a bouquet of lavender, lilies, lilac and spring.

she did not disturb the earth or its creatures when plucking those gifts for you, but instead poured over a flower crown and delivered it to mother earth's doorstep.
all she wants is for you to welcome her into your home; your heart. when she is invited, she will prove herself stable, steadfast, safe.

she will greet you
at the door with affection, hold her hand, graze your ribs, make you tea, tell you she's proud of you, write you perfect sonnets. she will run you a bath made of rose and sage, lather her desire into a basin full of bubbles, wrap you in a velvet mug of hot cocoa and refuse to move.

CRISP & CREAM

SERVES 2

INGREDIENTS:

cauliflower, whole
 ½ cup + 2 tbsp all-purpose flour, divided
 ½ cup panko breadcrumbs
 1 egg, lightly beaten
 ½ cup whole milk
 2 tbsp butter
 ½ cup grated sharp cheddar
 ½ cup peas, frozen or fresh 4-6 spears of asparagus handful of sprouts/pea shoots garlic powder (optional)
 salt and pepper

METHOD:

Preheat your oven to 375. Fill a small pot of water and a pinch of salt, and set it on the stove, with a lid, to boil.

You will need three bowls to bread your cauliflower. Fill one bowl with ½ cup flour, the next with the egg, the next with panko breadcrumbs. In the flour bowl, add 1 tsp salt, 1 tsp garlic powder and pepper and stir thoroughly! Set all bowls aside.

Place the whole cauliflower on your cutting board and cut it exactly in half using a sharp knife.

Next, cut the round edge off each half, so you are left with two cauliflower “steaks,” about 1.5-2cm thick. (Save all the extra cauliflower bits for soup, stirfry or salad!)

Dip the cauliflower into the seasoned flour first.

Next, dip it in the beaten egg, coating on all sides. Next, dip it into the panko.

Heat a large non-stick, oven-safe skillet (cast iron works great for this!) and add a generous amount of olive oil. Wait for the oil to get very hot (test by tossing in a piece of panko and once it sizzles wildly, it’s ready!)

Place both cauliflower steaks into the pan and let it sizzle and brown on medium-high heat for about 2-3 minutes. Once browned, flip over and then place the entire pan into your oven to finish cooking. Set timer for 20 minutes.

Next, in a small saucepan, melt the butter on medium. Add 2tbsp flour to the pot and stir with a spoon until the mixture is thick and smooth, about 2 minutes.

Add ½ cup of milk, one splash at a time, stirring the whole time. Once the milk is all added, let the mixture come to a boil on medium-high heat. This should only take a few minutes.

Once boiling, remove from the heat and stir in ½ cup cheddar cheese and a pinch of salt and pepper.

Rinse the asparagus and cut into coins, about 5mm in length (the size of a pea) and submerge them in the boiling water, along with the peas. Cook 1 minute and strain.

To put this luxurious dish together, divide the cheddar sauce between two plates. Place a crispy cauliflower steak on top, and then spoon the pea/asparagus mixture around the steak. Enjoy!
